This is the age of information Revolution, which has made the globe shrink as never before. Countries have leapfrogged barriers of time and space; people have started speaking a new language of brotherhood; ideologies fare disintegrating, yielding place to the concept of citizen of the world.

One of the best dimensions of this new found freedom can be play – a language everyone understands, unmindful of political borders, racial differences, linguistic divides, ethnic considerations. Human contact is the name of the new game, and bridging the gaps between peoples, regions, languages, cultures and hearts is the new strategy. CHILDREN TOY FOUNDATION hopes to achieve this at both national and international levels.

WHY DO WE NEED A TOY/ GAME LIBRARY?

For a majority of India's child population, quality toys remain a pie – in- the- sky. The poor standard of living of the general populace has imposed unnatural curbs on the child's playtime, curbing its most natural means of discovery, communication and expression.

When people generally buy toys The intellectual level of the child, its aptitudes and inclinations, are never taken into account. The potential force of toys/ games in molding the character and temperament of the young ones never features in the scheme of things.

The libraries/ play centers set up by CHILDREN TOY FOUNDATION fight against this general tendency: of treating toys/ games as insignificant things, not worth more than a passing thought. The FOUNDATION believes in catching them young the young minds bubbling with enthusiasm for a variety of subjects and initiating natural development of their talents. On its own and through other lovers of toys/ games the FOUNDATION has been busy opening exciting opportunities to discover and experiment within today's rapidly changing worlds of science, engineering, sports, arts, crafts, etc., from an early age. The toys choice today could decide the child's tomorrow.

The FOUNDATION believes that today's children are tomorrow's pillars of strength; and hence anything done for them is never adequate enough.

The first step in this direction was taken to set up 1 library in each state / U.T. i. e. 36 states 36 mind & educational games libraries pan India and inaugurate on a single day, to catch eyes of various aspirants institutions, companies, educationists and government to replicate all over speedily.

Before this our foundation through network of 357 libraries and mobile vans pan India is already benefitting in numerable children.
